Welcome to the Summer School

A warm welcome to our seventh Annual Oxford Animal Ethics Summer School

This year, we are exploring Animals and Public Policy, asking the question: How can we embody, implement and institutionalise animal ethics?

We are delighted to have speakers from all over the world representing a wide array of disciplines, including public policy advisers and academics, educationalists, ethicists, historians, lawyers, criminologists, philosophers, theologians, psychologists, and social scientists. We hope the discussion over the next few days will help inspire and implement public policy for animals across the globe..

This Summer School is only possible because of our wonderful sponsors. We would like to thank the

Brooks Institute for Animal Rights Law and Policy, the Kirkpatrick Foundation, Compassion in World Farming, Susan and Dan Boggio, and Vanesa Clarke. We are truly grateful to our sponsors without which this exciting Summer School would not be possible

I look forward to personally welcoming you to our Summer School.

About the Oxford Centre for Animal Ethics

The Oxford Centre for Animal Ethics (www.oxfordanimaethics.com) is the premier centre for animal ethics worldwide. Our Centre aims to break new ground for the animals by pioneering ethical perspectives on animals through academic research, teaching, and publication. We want to put ethical concern for animals on the intellectual agenda, and contribute to an enlightened public debate about animals. We believe that the rational case for animals is frequently understated within academia and misrepresented in the media.

The heart of the work of the Centre is our international Fellowship of over 100 academics drawn from the humanities and the sciences. The Fellows are working in all fields of academic scholarship to advance perspectives on animal ethics.

The Centre publishes the Journal of Animal Ethics in partnership with the University of Illinois Press, and has established a book series on animal ethics with Palgrave Macmillan comprising more than thirty books.

About Merton College, University of Oxford

Merton College, the first fully self-governing College in the University, was founded in 1264 by Walter de Merton, sometime Chancellor of England and later Bishop of Rochester. Mob Quadrangle, the oldest quadrangle in the University, was built in three phases: the Treasury c.1288-91; the north and east ranges and the Sacristy c.1304-11; and the Library on the south and west sides 1373-8. Mob Library is the oldest continuously-functioning library for university academics and students in the world. The Gatehouse dates from the early fifteenth century, when Henry V granted a royal 'licence to crenellate', which allowed for the construction of the battlement tower above the present-day Lodge.

What is now the quire of Merton Chapel was begun in the late 1280s, as part of the Church of St Mary & St John. It was built to replace the Parish Church of St John the Baptist which stood on the site now occupied by the north wing of Mob Quad.

The transepts (what is now the Ante-chapel) were added in the 14th and early 15th centuries, and the tower was completed in 1450. To this day, the Chapel contains one of the finest pre-Reformation lecterns surviving in England, originally given to the College in 1504. A screen by Christopher Wren was added in 1673. Edward Blore, William Butterfield, and Sir Gilbert Scott contributed to its restoration during the Gothic revival of the 19th century.

Merton College was originally founded for 20 fellows, with undergraduates being formally admitted in the early 1380s. It was then that John Wyliot, a former Fellow and Sub-Warden, endowed a number of scholarships known at Merton as Postmasterships. Over the centuries, many eminent scholars and cultural leaders have called Merton home. They include four Nobel Prize winners, the mathematician who solved Fermat's Last Theorem, J R R Tolkien, the physician who discovered the circulation of blood, and the founder of the Bodleian Library for animal rights law & policy inc.

The Brooks Institute for Animal Rights Law and Policy, Inc. is a US-based national independent think-and-do tank pursuing a paradigm shift in human responsibility towards non-human animals by advancing animal law, animal policy, and related interdisciplinary studies.

The Brooks Institute is dedicated to producing and disseminating outstanding, independent, academic, and public policy research and programming; and pursuing projects and initiatives focused on advancing law and policy pertaining to animals.

The Brooks Institute is the legacy of its benefactor, Brooks McCormick Jr., who had a heart and concern for all living beings. Brooks McCormick Jr. had a deep bond with animals, sharing his life with many companion animals, cherishing their emotional cognizance and intellectual capacity.

The Oxford Centre for Animal Ethics Summer School represents a historic contribution to the diversity of best thinking in advancing animal dignity and well-being. The Brooks Institute believes sponsorship of the Oxford Centre and its Summer School is a strategic investment to their continued contribution and legacy.

Tim Midura, Professor Justin Marceau, Sarah Munoz, Professor Kristen Stilt and Amanda Yancey will be talking about the work of the Brooks Institute on Sunday evening in the T S Eliot Theatre.

About the Kirkpatrick Foundation

Kirkpatrick Foundation is an Oklahoma City-based philanthropy focused on arts, culture, education, animal wellbeing, environmental conservation, and historical preservation. Started in 1955 by John and Eleanor Kirkpatrick, the Foundation has two initiatives: Safe & Humane, to make Oklahoma one of the safest and most humane places to be an animal by the year 2032; and ArtDesk, a free quarterly magazine focused on contemporary art, performance, and thought.

The Foundation's support of the Oxford Centre for Animal Ethics helps to strengthen our work in Oklahoma and symbolizes our shared values with animal advocates around the world. We look forward to the new friendships arising from the Centre's 2022 summer school.

Louisa McCune, Executive Director, and Christian Keese, Chairman of the Kirkpatrick Foundation, Oklahoma City will be speaking on Monday evening in the T S Eliot Theatre.

About Compassion in World Farming

Compassion in World Farming International is a powerful global movement dedicated to ending factory farming and radically changing our food systems to reduce reliance on animal protein, before it's too late.

With headquarters in the UK and offices throughout Europe, in the USA and China, we are an influential organisation whose supporters and partners throughout the world help us deliver on our initiatives.

We are delighted to sponsor this important Seventh Annual Oxford Animal Ethics Summer School which aims to embody, implement and institutionalise animal ethics. We believe all animals should be treated with compassion and respect, and that there should be global recognition of animal sentience.

Philip Lymbery, Global Chief Executive of Compassion in World Farming, will be speaking on "From Farmageddon to a Compassionate Future" on Monday afternoon in the T S Eliot Theatre.

Jo-Anne McArthur

Jo-Anne McArthur is an award-winning photographer, author, and sought-after speaker. Since 1998, her work has taken her to over sixty countries to document our complex relationships with animals. In 2019, she founded We Animals Media, an international agency dedicated to telling the stories of animals.

McArthur's books include HIDDEN Animals in the Anthropocene, with co-editor Keith Wilson (2020), Captive (2017), and We Animals (2014).

McArthur was the subject of the critically acclaimed 2013 documentary The Ghosts in Our Machine, which followed her as she documented the plight of abused and exploited animals and advocated for their rights as sentient beings.

With Dr Keri Cronin, McArthur co-founded The Unbound Project, a photographic project that celebrates women at the forefront of animal advocacy, both contemporary and historical.

Many of the photographs of animals in this programme and on the pocket come from Jo-Anne's We Animals Media stock site, which houses over 17,000 images from 76 contributors. We are very grateful to We Animals Media for lending us their poignant images.

Important Notices

Internet Access

Wireless internet access is available throughout the college site. All visitors are welcome to make use of 'The Cloud', an internet service which is free to use; after joining this Wi-Fi network, attempt to open any web-page then follow the instructions which appear in your web-browser to get online.

We also have a specific Wi-Fi network for the Summer School. Connect to the 'Merton Events' and the password is: ethics22

Key fobs

Those staying at Merton will have access to different parts of the college with key fobs. For security reasons day delegates will not be given key fobs. As the college is open to the public in the afternoon, key fobs may be required to exit the college. Please find an ambassador if you have any issues. They may also be required to enter the common room, again please find an ambassador or a residential guest for help.

Covid-19

For the safety and security of all the delegates, please can you complete a lateral flow test before attending the Summer School. Delegates are welcome to wear masks, though they are not mandatory in the UK. The lecture theatres are spacious enough to socially distance if preferred. Hand sanitisers will be available in the lecture theatres for you to use. If the weather allows, we will be holding some of the meals and receptions outside.

If you feel unwell at any point during the Summer School, please let Clair or the Summer School Office know. Sadly, we cannot supply tests for everyone at the Summer School, so we advise delegates to travel with some spare lateral flow tests. PCR tests or Fit to Fly tests are available nearby in the city centre: DAM Health in the Clarendon Centre and Express Test in the Westgate Shopping Centre.

If you test positive during the Summer School, please think of others and isolate. We can arrange to have meals brought to your room.

In the unfortunate event of someone contracting Covid, they will not be able to extend their stay. They will need to check out on the agreed date as planned.
